CHINA FAVORS SOVIET TROOP REPORT PLAN

Says United States Forces in His Country at Specific Request of His Government

BRITAIN HAS PROPOSAL

Lake Success, N. Y., Nov. 21.—(P)—China today gave full support to a Russian proposal for reports to the United Nations on the disposition of all troops outside home borders but joined with the United States in demanding that the figures also cover domestic armed forces.

V. K. Wellington Koo, Chinese delegate, then reiterated before the assembly's 54-nation political committee that United States troops were in his country at the specific request of his government. He said they were not interfering in internal affairs and gave cause for no friction or misunderstanding.

Koo spoke in the presence of Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov who yesterday indicated that the presence of United States troops in China was the cause of anxiety.

Authoritative sources said today Great Britain may propose the establishment of a United Nations inspection board to "determine with accuracy" the number of armed troops in the world and where they are located.

The British plan would implement a United States proposal that all members of the world organization submit complete figures on all troops at home and abroad.

Russia yesterday signified her readiness to give a full accounting of Soviet troops abroad if other United Nations members do likewise but shied away temporarily from the American demand for the accounting include a statement on the forces maintained at home.

Britain was scheduled to explain her position to the 54-member U. N. Political and Security Committee today. Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin had been expected to make the British reply, but a member of the British delegation said he probably would be too busy with the council of foreign ministers in New York to come to Lake Success.

Authoritative sources said Britain was of the opinion that world troop accounting should be linked with world disarmament. They said Britain would stress this point to the committee.

The question of reporting on alleged troop strength abroad was first raised by Soviet Russia in the Security Council last August, when she proposed that United Nations members be required to make public the strength of their forces in non-enemy countries.

NEWSPAPER PICKETED

Camden, N. J., Nov. 21.—(P)—Hundreds of pickets paraded around the struck Camden Courier-Post plant today as the walk-out of CIO-American Newspaper Guild employees here and at the Philadelphia Record entered its third week. Police said marchers were from the New York shipyard local of the CIO-Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers, who appeared after 54 arrested pickets were given five day suspended sentences.

Cold Wave Warnings Issued For States in the Northwest

By The Associated Press
Cold wave warnings were issued today for Minnesota and Iowa as a mass of cold air covering the northwest moved rapidly southward.

The U. S. Weather bureau at Chicago said the cold air "gripes" Montana, the Dakotas, Nebraska, Colorado and northern Wyoming, bringing temperatures ranging from 20 to 25 degrees above zero to 23 below zero.

Low readings included -23 degrees at Cut Bank, Mont.; -20 at Lewistown, Mont.; -18 at Helena, Mont.; and zero at Williston, N. D.

Closing Liquor Stores Is Not Contemplated

Harrisburg, Nov. 21.—(P)—Governor Martin's office said today no local authorities in strike-bound western Pennsylvania soft coal fields have requested closing of state liquor stores and taprooms and no such action was contemplated unless such a request is received.

"It's all a matter of home rule," a spokesman said.

Three Small Brothers Die In Home Fire

Morrisville, Nov. 21.—(P)—Three small brothers burned to death in their flaming farm village cottage yesterday as their mother desperately tried to reach them.

The charred bodies of Raymond Daniels, three, and Mark Daniels, Jr., two, locked in each other's arms, were found beneath the ruins of a bed where they had fled in terror.

The third, William Daniels, six months, youngest in the family of six boys, was brought from the blazing cottage by his mother, but died of burns and asphyxiation enroute to a hospital.

A fourth child, Ronald, four, only one in the house to escape, was carried out by rescuers led to him by the terrified yelping of the family dog. Ronald suffered only slight burns.

Mrs. Emma Daniels, 23, mother of the victims, was treated for burns. She told police she engulfed the children's bedroom after an oil stove exploded, halting her efforts to reach the tots down a narrow hallway.

Police quoted her as saying she had left the children alone in the house to visit a neighbor.

BULLETINS

Washington, Nov. 21.—(P)—The civilian production administration has decided that after Dec. 16 new automobiles may be sold with a spare tire and tube for the first time since 1942, when wartime restrictions were imposed.

Peiping, Nov. 21.—(P)—Informal observers today predicted the government soon would launch an overall offensive against the Chinese Communist capital, Henan, and other strongholds in north China and Manchuria.

Tokyo, Nov. 21.—(P)—The defense at the international war crimes trial strongly implied in questioning today that the U. S. state department suppressed significant memorandum on 1941 Japanese-American negotiations.

Miami, Nov. 21.—(P)—James E. Marshall, director of the agriculture department's sugar branch predicted today that consumers may get five pounds more sugar in 1947 than is being rationed to them this year.

Philadelphia, Nov. 21.—(P)—The Nuernberg crimes trials represent a vital step in the world's progress toward a rule of law, says Francis Biddle, U. S. member of the international military tribunal.

Biddle, rejecting a thesis set forth by Senator Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) that the Nuernberg trials were unjust since they had no legal precedent, declared "laws are not found only in books."

SEEKS EARLY START ON NAZI TREATY TALKS

Secretary Byrnes Reported Ready to Press for Discussion of Germany By Foreign Ministers

POLICY IS CONSIDERED

New York, Nov. 21.—(P)—Secretary of State Byrnes was reported ready today to press for discussion of Germany by the foreign ministers council the next time the Big-Four strike a time-consuming snag in their work on Italian and other satellite peace treaties.

Following a conference with Byrnes and British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin yesterday on economic merger of American and British German occupation zones, Lt. Gen. Lucius D. Clay told reporters he and Ambassador Robert Murphy were standing by here for the German talks and for consultation with Byrnes on United States policy toward Germany.

Clay is deputy commander in the American zone and Murphy is his top political adviser. While preparing for the Big-Four attack on long-range control and development of the defeated enemy country, they are also winding up arrangements for the two-zone economic integration.

This step, Clay told a news conference last night, should make the two zones economically self-sufficient in the next three years but meanwhile will add many millions a year to the American budget for importing food into the Reich.

American expenditures for this purpose, exclusive of military costs, presently amount to $200,000,000 annually. The British, with a larger population to feed, are spending about twice that much. As part of the merger, Clay made clear, the United States has agreed to share part of the greater British cost in the belief that only thus can the merger be made effective and eventual self-sufficiency for the zones be assured.

Clay said he felt optimistic about the possibility of Russia's eventually adding her zone to the German economic group being formed by the United States and Britain.

Byrnes' chief aims, however, have been defined as (1) to revive his Soviet-rejected 40-year German disarmament treaty and (2) to seek agreement of Britain, Russia and France on the appointment of deputy foreign ministers to begin work on a permanent German peace settlement.

Meanwhile the Foreign Ministers Council inched along toward final agreement on the kind of government to be set up over the proposed international territory of Trieste. Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov, adding to the concessions by which he had already broken the Trieste deadlock, agreed last night that the territorial governor should have veto power over the foreign policy of the locally elected government.

Prospect Of Discontinuing Oil Subsidies

Washington, Nov. 21.—(P)—Increases in the price of crude oil raised the possibility today of eventual elimination of government subsidy payments for oil produced from stripper or marginal wells in the midcontinent area and reduction of payments in the Pennsylvania area.

Officials of the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion said no action has yet been taken by the agency as a result of crude price increases reported to range from 10 to 20 cents a barrel. However, they said revision of the subsidy payment program "is in the making in line with past actions in connection with the program."

They pointed out that when the base crude price went up 25 cents a barrel last summer, the subsidy payments dropped by that amount, leaving them at about 10 cents a barrel in the midcontinent field and 50 cents for Pennsylvania crude. Thus, they said, a 10-cent price increase, if general, probably would eliminate the mid-continent subsidy and reduce the Pennsylvania subsidy to 40 cents a barrel.

Subsidy payments were authorized to help producers defray the extra cost of producing oil from marginal wells.

Legal Tangle Over Selling Of Pipe Lines

Washington, Nov. 21.—(P)—War Assets Administrator Robert M. Littlejohn will be recalled before the house surplus property committee next week to give details of why he rejected 16 bids for purchase of the "Big Inch" and "Little Inch" pipelines.

Chairman Slaughter (D-Mo) told reporters the committee wants to know particularly why Littlejohn acted without getting a recommendation first from the WAA Real Property Review Board, as was testified by the review board chairman, Harry Folack.

Slaughter said the committee also would like to know why only "informal" consideration was given an "informal" recommendation by Lt. Gray Marshall, chief of the WAA utilities branch, that the lines be sold to Big Inch Oil, Inc., of New York, for $110,000,000. Disposal of the lines, appraised at $113,700,000, appeared headed for a legal tangle over the question of whether natural gas can (Turn to Classified Page)

Effort to End Hotel Strike Hits Snag

Pittsburgh, Nov. 21.—(P)—Unsettled snags apparently nullified negotiators' hopes for an early end of the 52-day-old hotel strike here and brought a stalemate today with no new wage talks scheduled.

A long session last night between leaders of the AFL-Hotel and restaurant workers alliance, the AFL-bartenders union, hotel management and federal conciliators broke up with spokesmen reporting no progress.

Federal Labor Conciliator Charles Kutz said wages remain the principal obstacle. The unions demand 20 cents an hour pay boost while the hotels' latest joint offer calls for eight cents an hour more for tipped employees and 12 cents more for non-tipped workers.

Halt of Fuel Production Is Threat To National Economy

Pittsburgh, Nov. 21.—(P)—Complete, or near complete, stoppage of soft coal production carries a drastic threat to the nation's economy. Anthracite output is used in some New England industries, but largely for household consumption. Bituminous coal provides 95 per cent of the locomotive power, 55 per cent of industrial energy and 62 per cent of electrical power.

An estimated 25,000,000 workers would be made idle by a prolonged shutdown as lack of coal forced factories and offices to close.

Iron Age, national metalworking journal, said a complete stoppage of coal production could reduce the steel industry's operating rate within a week to about 80 percent of capacity. It was functioning at 91.5 percent earlier this week. Lack of steel would soon force thousands of fabricating plants to shut down.

Even before the work stoppage clamped down, the government talked of appealing to governors of states east of the Mississippi to revert to wartime brownouts and to ration electricity and manufactured goods.

Railroads planned to conform to the Office of Defense Transportation order for a 25-percent reduction in passenger service rendered by coal-burning locomotives at midnight Sunday. While the Association of American Railroads estimated member lines had a 30 days' normal coal supply, the ODT said some roads have only a 10 days' stock.

The first immediate effect on the railroads was the cancellation of orders sending cars to the mine fields. At Uniontown, the Baltimore and Ohio prepared to divert 1,000 coal cars and 500 coke cars. The Pennsylvania cancelled orders for 1,000 coal and coke cars. Railroads employ thousands whose jobs depend directly on the steady flow of coal from the mines.

President Is Still Enjoying His Vacation

Key West, Fla., Nov. 21.—(P)—President Truman proceeded today with his vacation schedule as the nation's soft coal miners deserted the pits and the government went ahead with plans to press contempt proceedings against John L. Lewis.

Donning tan slacks and a pink sports shirt, the president took a ride on the U-2513, a former German submarine captured shortly before the close of the war. One of the "Schnorkel" type it is the object of examination at this naval base.

Reporters, questioning Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross as the party boarded the vessel, were told "there's nothing new" developments "on the coal strike from temporary White House headquarters here."

"All we know is that they (the miners) went out," Special Counsel Clark M. Clifford said. Ross said the White House staff here had not talked since last night with Attorney General Tom Clark and Interior Secretary J. A. Krug, government operator of the mines, in whose hands the administration's next step has been left.

Relief Speeds To Victims Of Plane Crash

Paris, Nov. 21.—(P)—American authorities at Orly airport said tonight they feared the outlook was virtually hopeless for the 11 persons aboard a crashed C-53 transport unless rescue crews reached within a few hours the spot in the Alps where the plane came down two days ago.

They pointed out the 12,000-foot-high area was swept by bitter winds. U. S. Army headquarters at Frankfurt reported a radio message saying eight of the 11 were stretcher cases.

The passengers included a brigadier general and the wives of three brigadier generals.

A mysterious radio message led to a premature announcement of the plane's discovery.

Paris, Nov. 21.—(P)—A U. S. army officer issued today, and then withdrew, an announcement that a plane had located the American C-53 transport which crashlanded Tuesday on a flight from Munich.

Col. H. T. Minter, commander of the European Air Transport Service, had said the wreckage was located on a glacier high in the French Alps about 45 miles west of Turin, Italy. He withheld the announcement without explanation.

Earlier U. S. Army headquarters at Frankfurt reported a "radio message saying eight of the 11 persons aboard the C-53 were stretcher cases. The Istres airport said a Pan-American Airways plane had sighted the transport, but Pan-American reported from its Turin office that none of the planes that landed there had sighted the wreckage.

Among the passengers were Brig. Gen. Loyal M. Haynes, former deputy chief of staff, U. S. forces in Austria; Haynes' wife, and the wives of Brig. Gen. Ralph H. Tate and Ralph Snavely. Mrs. Tate is the mother of the plane's pilot, Capt. Ralph H. Tate, Jr.

The wreckage was spotted by one of 20 EATS search planes at 2:20 p. m. (8:20 a. m. EST), said Col. Minter, who had directed the army's search from his office in Orly Field since the transport made a crash landing 48 hours ago.

Col. Minter said the plane which discovered the wreckage signaled ground rescue parties toiling up the precipitous slopes of the Alps, and circled the site to guide the rescuers.

Ground rescue parties, composed of expert mountaineers, American army doctors and nurses and French Alpine troops, meanwhile toiled up steep mountain slopes (Turn to Classified Page)

COAL SUSPENSION COMES IN FACE OF GOVERNMENT PLEAS TO KEEP MINES OPERATING

Federal Works Administrator Fleming Orders Return To Wartime Heating and Lighting Restrictions in Federal Buildings

PUNISHMENT FOR LOCAL LEADERS CONTEMPLATED

By The Associated Press
Washington, Nov. 21.—(P)—The government moved quickly to cite John L. Lewis for contempt of court today as a general walkout of UMW miners throttled the soft coal production.

Reports from the field indicated some anthracite miners were joining the 400,000 bituminous diggers in a stoppage that could eventually touch all industry. Work suspension came in the face of government pleas to keep the mines going.

Lewis, who disregarded a court order to restore the effectiveness of the miners' contract with the government, continued silent.

The United Mine Workers boss was at his home in suburban Alexandria, Va., and as the morning passed there was no indication that he planned to come into his Washington union headquarters.

There were indications there that Lewis may have made arrangements for an extended absence from his office. It was known that he spent much of yesterday answering mail and otherwise clearing his desk of pending business.

By noon today, government attorneys were expected to go before Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough and petition for a contempt citation that might subject him to fine or imprisonment.

However, midday came and went with the government attorneys still in consultation and indications that there would be some delay in their appearance in court.

Judge Goldsborough disposed of routine matters before him during the morning and adjourned his court for the day shortly before 12 o'clock. He left the court building for lunch but aides said he would be in his chambers later in the afternoon.

Orders went out to cushion the impact of a prospective coal famine.

Federal Works Administrator Philip E. Fleming ordered a return to wartime heating and lighting restrictions in all federal buildings.

In the mounting crisis, U. S. troops stood ready to move into the coal fields to prevent violence—(Turn to Classified Page)

Stoppage Complete In West Virginia and Pennsylvania

Pittsburgh, Nov. 21.—(P)—With the biggest coal states—West Virginia and Pennsylvania—paving the way, reports rolled in of a virtually complete walkout of 400,000 AFL miners in the bituminous fields today.

West Virginia coal operators, employing 102,000, reported not a single union pit operating. The Solid Fuel Administration said practically all Pennsylvania soft coal mines, employing 100,000, were idle.

Also reporting virtually complete shutdowns were Ohio, Illinois, Indiana and Maryland.

A representative of the Solid Fuel Administration said at Pittsburgh that the walkout is "definitely on."

Paralysis spread through coal-producing states across the nation with the termination by John L. Lewis and his United Mine Workers Union of their contract with the U. S. government. The miners do not work without a contract.

Even before the midnight deadline set by Lewis, some 140,000 miners had laid down their tools in 13 states.

Since most miners start their work-day in daylight hours, the effectiveness of the walkout remained to be determined during the day. But on all sides there were signs the stoppage would be complete.

Government notices asking miners to stay on the job still clung to mine bulletin boards. These said the contract was still in effect, for the duration of government possession of the mines. The government took over the mines last spring to end the last big coal work stoppage.

Penn'a A. F. of L. Rallies To Support of Mine Union Chief

Harrisburg, Nov. 21.—(P)—The AFL-Pennsylvania Federation of Labor rallied today to the support of John L. Lewis in the current dispute with the federal government over a new wage contract for soft coal miners.

The federation legislative conference adopted a resolution unanimously condemning a federal court order which directed the United Mine Workers chief to cancel a notice terminating the union's wage contract with the government.

The resolution, presented at a meeting yesterday called to frame the federation's legislative program for the 1947 session of the Pennsylvania general assembly, termed the court order "detrimental to the interests of organized labor and the people of the country in general."

James L. McDevitt, president of the Federation, said in commenting on the resolution that labor injunctions deprive the working people of their rights without a jury trial.

The Federation's legislative conference, in its program for new legislation, called for amendments to the unemployment compensation law "to make Pennsylvania first, instead of 40th" in benefits to unemployed wage earners. The conference directed the federation's 15-member executive council to draw up the specific recommendations.

Farm Home Is Burned With Contents Lost

Fire starting from a defective chimney in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Erickson, at Scandia, yesterday afternoon at 3 p. m. burned the house to the ground with all of its contents. Mrs. Erickson is ill at the Warren General Hospital at the present time and her condition is regarded as being serious. Mr. Erickson, who underwent an operation a few years ago and has been unable to do heavy work since that time was home with three children.

He went to the second floor and built a fire and then taking his gun started for the woods. As he entered a copse of brush he looked back and was horrified to see his home ablaze. One of the children in the home ran to the nearby school house and called for help. An alarm was sent to both the Russell and Warren Fire Departments and both responded. The fire from the school ran to the farm and succeeded in saving the live stock.

When the fire departments arrived the home was a total loss and Myron Bullock, who with Captain Tridico manned the emergency truck, got on the roof of one of the barns and with the use of the booster lines from the emergency truck and Engine Company No. 2 manned by Erma Fitzgerald and Al Whiteshot saved the barn. The Russell department did valiant work and saved other out buildings.

The home was a large frame two story affair and was built many years ago. The heavy timbers in the structure burned rapidly. An estimate of the loss is placed at over $8,000 on home and contents. All clothing of the family was burned.

Class of 102 Join Moose At Gala Meeting

Warren Lodge Loyal Order of Moose staged a happy event last evening when they celebrated Past Governor's Night. Old Timers Night and initiated a class of 102 men. There was a crowd of over 500 men in attendance and the affair will be one long remembered.

The meeting was called to order at 8 o'clock by Junior Governor Gus Sandstrom, due to the death of Governor George Wertman, a few days ago, and the chair has been declared vacant. The degree was given by the degree team of Albion, Pa., and it was done in a most excellent manner. The quartette was especially effective and the team won much praise for the presentation of the ritual.

George Fox, of Clearfield gave an excellent address as he pinched for Supreme Governor Leo Ryan, who found it impossible to attend the gathering. He spoke at some length.

A fine tribute was paid to Governor George Wertman, recently deceased and a minute was ordered inscribed on the minutes and a copy sent to the family.

Following adjournment of the meeting a fine turkey dinner was served and a turkey party enjoyed. During the dining a five act floor show was presented.

Yule Parade At Bradford Im Imposing

A number of persons from Warren were in Bradford last evening to view the mammoth parade which marked the celebration of the 15th anniversary of the discovery of oil at that place. The actual parade required an hour and a half to pass a given point, according to reports of those who enjoyed it. There were no marching delegations with the exception of nine bands. The entire parade formation was made up of floats and nummers, some of the latter being so large they required transportation by truck.

Streets were beautifully decorated with greens and lights, and Santa Claus figures were attached to the light poles. Stores were similarly decorated for the holiday season, providing a most attractive setting for the festivities.

Army Advisory Committee Is Formed For Warren County

An Army Advisory Committee has been formed in Warren. The committee is under the leadership of William R. Simonsen, treasurer of Warren county. Mr. Simonsen will guide the committee in its efforts to bring about a closer understanding between the public and its Army. Other prominent citizens of Warren serving on the committee are W. H. Cannon, Chamber of Commerce; C. R. Agnew, American Legion; Charles E. Pearson, V. F. W.; William F. Crossett, Burgess; Mrs. W. C. Wellhart, Woman's Club; John H. Stewart, Kiwanis Club; Warren G. Lowe, Lions Club; Joe Buchert, Rotary Club; H. L. Blair, County Superintendent of Schools, and the Rev. H. L. Knappenberger, Ministerial Ass'n.

The Army Advisory Committee program launched last January in the Third Service Command by Major General Manton S. Eddy, is being extended throughout the seven state area of the Second Army, which Lieutenant General Albert C. Wedemeyer now commands.

The program of active interest and support of the Army by groups of representative citizens has attracted wide attention. It came about as a result of a series of luncheon meetings held last January for the purpose of securing public support for the Army Recruiting Campaign. The response to these meetings caused General Eddy to originate the organization of Army Advisory Committees. Serving on these committees are the leaders in various civic fields. The groups not only continue to assist in the recruiting campaign, but act as a medium of informing the public on Army activities, and also advise the Commanding General on public trends regarding Army affairs. They have proved to be a tremendous asset to the Army's public relations program.

At the present time there are seventy-one committees functioning in Maryland, Pennsylvania and Virginia. The organization of similar groups at principal cities and towns in Ohio, West Virginia, Indiana and Kentucky, which are in the Second Army area, is now under way. There are approximately eighty-three committees now functioning in these states, making a total of one hundred and fifty-four committees throughout the Second Army Area.

Each committee has a chairman and the usual type of organization is a membership of a representative from the municipal government, the Chamber of Commerce, the principal business clubs and associations and each veterans organization as well as the women's clubs, the presidents of educational institutions and the clergy.

The diversified character of the membership of these committees enables a quick approach to the solution of problems pertaining to the Army. The chairman, knowing his group, can reach out at any time into any particular field of local activity and thus get prompt action and authentic information with a minimum of effort. Scores of worthwhile suggestions have come to the Commanding General from the members of these committees, it was stated at his headquarters. Meetings of the full membership of the committee are frequently held. However, sub-committee meetings are also held by those directly concerned with particular problems under study to work out the solution.

Greater Care in Dimming Lights Urged

Harrisburg—Colonel C. M. Wilhelm, Commissioner, Pennsylvania State Police, today requested automobile operators to exercise greater care in dimming their lights when approaching oncoming traffic.

"Failure to dim headlights in accordance with the law is the cause of many accidents, some of them fatal," he said. "Figures made available to the State Police indicate that in the first nine months of 1941, there were 615 accidents, 7 of them fatal, attributed to glaring headlights; while last year 118 accidents, 5 of them fatal, resulted from the same cause."

"Common courtesy dictates that every motorist should dim his lights when approaching another car. If each driver would remember this, night driving would be much safer."

The Vehicle Code provides that, "whenever the driver of a vehicle approaching an oncoming vehicle within 500 feet, such driver shall depress, dim, or use a distribution of light or composite beam so aimed that the glaring rays are not projected in the eyes of the oncoming driver while such driver is approaching"

Say Holiday Sales Will Set Record

Washington — (AP) — Government officials generally predicted a Christmas sales volume perhaps 10 per cent greater, in terms of actual goods wrapped and pushed across the counter, than in last year's record holiday buying binge.

In terms of dollars, some economists of the federal reserve board, which keeps the tally on department store sales, believe the peak will be 20 to 25 per cent higher than a year ago. Price increases will account for much of extra jingle in the cash register.

The new peak is foreseen despite this fall's slowdown in department store sales, which earlier in the year were running nearly 30 per cent above 1945. Few officials cared to predict, however, whether sales would keep rolling after Christmas in the phenomenal volume that led up to last Easter.

A spokesman for the storekeepers themselves was unreservedly optimistic. Walter Morrow, president of the American Retail Federation, offered this forecast:

"Holiday business should be marvelous. Wage and income payments are high over the country, production is strong, there is a huge backlog of demand for all

Political Prophet

Peter Edson, NEA Service Washington correspondent, picked the winners with racing form accuracy in Newsweek's pre-election poll of 50 top political writers. He forecast a Republican gain of 52 seats in the House and 11 in the Senate. The actual gain was 54 in the House and 12 in the Senate. Edson tied for first with Mark Foote of the Booth Newspapers, who predicted gains of 49 and 12.

the heavier consumer goods. "I would guess the physical volume of goods would top 1945 by 10 or 12 per cent."

The Other Fellow

The Other Fellow—Seems like just about everything in this world that really amounts to much is based on a consideration of The Other Fellow, lending a helping hand where it will do the most good; even though it's only a kindly word to somebody who's feeling low. The Other Fellow—PAK's motto for the whole year, but one being especially stressed during the month of November. PAK, as everyone knows who reads the Times-Mirror, is getting ready for a big dinner-dance on November 30. Dinner-dances are always expensive propositions, particularly when the guest speaker is of such calibre as Paul Harris, Jr., who is being brought from Vermont as the special attraction of the November 30th function. So, with The Other Fellow in mind, PAK members themselves thought up the idea of having some sort of benefit that would help defray expenses and cut down the dinner tickets for some who might not otherwise be financially able to attend the party. Much of the credit for the idea goes directly to Betty Wade, it is understood. With a capable committee to back up her idea, she immediately hit upon the plan of presenting the PAK musicians in their initial appearance of the season—the real purpose back of the musicale which will be given in First Presbyterian church at four o'clock this Sunday afternoon. PAK has a real following in just about anything it proposes, but we are suggesting that everybody in the community who wants to have a hand in helping The Other Fellow—and particularly The Other Fellow who goes out and helps himself—will be on hand Sunday afternoon with the price of a ticket for the musicale, which in itself promises to be well worth the price of twice the admission asked. Tomorrow's paper will contain further details and the complete program.

Philomel Presents
Jean Robertson In
Guest Nite Recital

Last evening, the Philomel Club presented Miss Jean Robertson, pianist, in a recital at the Women's Club for its annual "guest night". A large audience of members and guests was treated to a well balanced and varied program that was played with artistry and skill.

The opening group of Byrd, Scarlatti and Haydn was characterized by its crispness and clarity, while the Brahms numbers which followed were warm in richness and color. In the Chopin selections, which made up the third group, the three Etudes were beautiful and the difficult Scherzo in B Minor, with its lovely singing melody, was outstanding in technical balance and sensitivity.

That Miss Robertson could display not only power but delicacy was made especially evident in the last group, from the dreamy Debussy tone picture to the fiery Rachmaninoff Prelude in B Flat

Major, with which she closed. As an encore, she played Serenata by Pini.

A recital by Miss Robertson is always considered a musical event and her performance last evening came up to all expectations. Warren is indeed fortunate in having as its own an artist of Miss Robertson's calibre.

Imports Add Global Note

Hitting foreign trails again in search of gifts to add international flavor to his pack, Santa's yield promises U. S. connoisseurs a limited but choice selection of rare-quality treasures created by master craftsmen of Europe and the Orient. Kay Sherwood, NEA staff writer, says in her regular letter to the Times-Mirror what will keep these cherished imports in a luxury class by themselves are limited shipments and the figures on price tags. Quality of these treasures, according to importers, is undimmed by their wartime regimentation. The list reads like a United Nations roll call—from Sweden come heavy, water-clear crystal vases, decanters, glasses, ash trays and candlesticks in starkly simple shapes, sometimes embellished with intricate engraved designs. Denmark sends exquisite Royal Copenhagen porcelain, with the charming figurines done up in their traditional, subtle tones of blue, green, gray and tan as bases for rare lamps. World-renowned Danish silver introduces a new craftsman, Frantz Hingelberg, to this country. Noted in Europe before the war, he sends in his first collection to this country such hand-made pieces of flatware and hollow ware as the satiny silver wine pitcher shown in the accompanying picture. The great English potteries are doing their best to supply Christmas surprises for U. S. collectors. Lucky the lady who has her household linen supply replenished by luxurious hand-embroidered imported linens. Irish linen yard goods shipped to China before the war and worked there by skilled Chinese needlewomen will turn up here as embroidered tablecloths and napkins as rich and creamy-looking as a Guernsey bossie's blue ribbon best. Famed Madeira linens will resume their eminence in the household linen closet. The elegance of fine gloves, rare petit point and laces from France; colored silks, leathers and gay pottery from Italy; enameled British-Indian brass are also ready to spice this second postwar Christmas with an international flavor.

Arthur and Larsen Rites November 16 At Akeley Church

On Saturday, November 16, the Akeley Methodist church was the setting for the late fall wedding of Miss Romaine G. Larsen, of Cleveland, O., younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max W. Larsen, Akeley, and Clyde J. Arthur, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde J. Arthur, of the same place. Rev. Philip Schlick, of Russell, performed the ceremony at three o'clock. The altar was covered with evergreens and banked with palms, candelabra with tall white candles, and baskets of yellow and white chrysanthemums. Mrs. Harry Johnson, Warren, was at the piano. The matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. Karl H. Kruse, Cleveland, who wore a street length dress of turquoise gabardine, brown accessories, and a corsage of Talamian roses. The best man was the bridegroom's brother, Allen J. Arthur, Akeley. Ushers were Kenneth Larsen and Robert Arthur, brothers of the couple. The bride was escorted and given in marriage by her father. She wore a suit of gray gabardine, with white accessories and an orchid corsage. The bride's mother chose a dress

LACY UNIT HAS SPECIAL OBSERVANCE
The November meeting of the PTA was part of the program planned for American Education week. The guest speaker was Superintendent John G. Rossman, who was presented by Mrs. Walter Mathyer, program chairman. His subject was "A Firm Foundation for Education."

Mr. Rossman placed emphasis on the pillars needed to realize a ing these were: 1. Family life, where all members should be part of the play, study and work life.

2. Health. 3. Church. 4. The school itself, where youngsters should be made to feel they are worthwhile. 5. The community to develop the spirit of cooperation, fair play, and getting along with our neighbors.

Mrs. Mathyer included the following musical numbers on her program: Two vocal numbers, "Jeannie With the Light Brown Hair" and "A Prayer of Thanksgiving," by Mrs. Nick Merenick and Mrs. H. J. Ristau. Miss Ruth Askert accompanied them and played two delightful piano numbers.

Space Saver Gift Is Tops

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA STAFF WRITER

New York—(NEA)—Started for special consideration on your Christmas list this year are friends who must make the most of limiting living-space in congested homes and jam-packed apartments. Cueing your choice are the ingenious and practical gifts that double the value of every inch of space.

One of the newest ideas to crash the market is a combination folding screen and dressing room, 68 inches high and 33 inches wide. One side is ornamentally papered or painted to complement room decor. Panels on the other side are fitted with a full-length mirror, clothing, shoe and hat racks and two shelves for cosmetics.

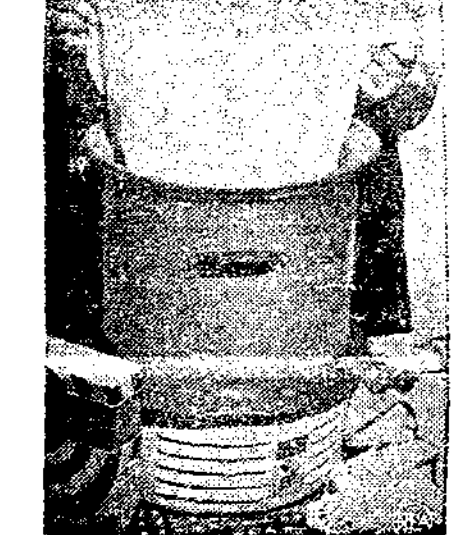

For a one-room dweller, there is a pint-sized electric toast-cooker which is almost a kitchen stove in miniature. The double-decker stove has a single heating unit on top to cook snacks or one-dish meals, while bread or sandwiches are toasted on the sliding rack underneath the unit. The tiny cooker is insulated to protect table surfaces from heat.

Another mighty midget for cramped quarters is a portable electric washing-machine that weighs only 18 pounds but launders duds as clean as its bulkier and bigger sisters. The removable washtub holds four and a half gallons of water and fits into an oscillating base which provides the necessary agitating action for thorough cleansing.

A hearty welcome from space-conscious people will also greet collapsible clothes-driers—some fitted with plastic clothes-pins—grooved clothing-racks to hang on doors; aluminum roll-away chests; fold-away irons; or a clothes tree that expands to hold a wardrobe of toga when the need arises.

A space Christmas gift for friends living in cramped quarters is the dressing table-screen, above. Front is papered to match room; back is fitted with mirror, racks and shelves usually found in spacious dressing alcoves of many-roomed homes.

Tiny stove, above, has hot plate to cook snacks and a rack for toast. Midget washing-machine, left, does thorough clean-up job on duds. Both will please people with no space to waste.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up at night. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging headache, rheumatism, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, backaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Why Bert Won First Prize

Folks weren't surprised when Bert Childers won first prize for his corn at the county fair.

Yet the judges admit it wasn't just because Bert had the finest ears of corn. He knew how to display them; neatly arranged, with the husks cleanly trimmed, and the booth white and spotless.

"Trimnings" sure make a difference no matter what you're offering—as Andy Botkin, keeper of the Garden Tavern, well knows. He sells it in a place that's clean and attractive...in nice surroundings that belong with the enjoyment of a wholesome beverage of moderation.

And Andy, of course, is a wholehearted supporter of "Self Regulation." That's the system by which the Brewers and tavern keepers themselves make sure that taverns selling beer are clean and orderly.

From where I sit, people like Andy also rate a "First prize." Not just for the quality of the product—but for the "trimmings" too.

GARLAND

The Board of trustees of Garland Community House met at the Irvin home on Thursday evening. They are very much in arrears financially and it was decided to close the building for the winter. If the Community House is to be opened again it will be largely due to the interest manifested by residents in this vicinity. With its present equipment and many possibilities it would be unfortunate to say the least to have its usefulness discontinued.

The young people had several parties during Halloween week while the school grades here joined in masked festivities and treats a little mischief too lent tone to evening caprices.

Mrs. Harriet Horn is visiting relatives in Kane and Warren. Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Ingram of Erie spent the week end at the home of their daughter Mrs. Kane and family.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hannah gave a birthday party Saturday evening for Norman Taylor at their home in Torpedo. The honored guest received several nice gifts. The house was well filled with neighbors and friends including some from out of town. A delicious lunch was served and two beautifully decorated birthday cakes were a part of the festivities. Norman wishes to thank all for the lovely evening.

Mrs. Russell Smith attended the meeting of the Eastern Star at Youngsville Friday evening.

The Woman's Auxiliary have had the Presbyterian church thoroughly cleaned and also have given a gift to Home and Foreign Missions this week.

Merry Christmas Is In the Cards

Shown above is a round-up of greeting-card motifs which symbolize the country's reconversion to peacetime living. Newcomers bidding for ultra-moderns' favor are cards of transparent plastic.

By EPIE KINARD

NEA Staff Writer
New York—(NEA)—A gay, cheerful and more peaceful Christmas is in the cards—greeting cards, that is, which the Post Office Department, handicapped by transportation facilities and shortages in personnel, urges you to mail early and send progressively.

Sealed envelopes stamped with first-class postage, which are a must for sending cards to the armed forces overseas, should be mailed prior to November 15, are also urged for the regular mailing. To insure prompt delivery of this year's cards to armed forces at distant destinations, the use of the new 5-cent Air Mail Postage is also urged.

The 1948 message, which stresses "Peace on earth, good will to men" in religious, whimsical, humorous, patriotic, whimsical, hugging themes, is conveyed through Christmas on a new kind of card. This year's film, a postwar plastic which crumbles the traditional greeting-card realm that's been dominated for years by cardboard and paper. It's used either as a sparkling, transparent cover for paper or as a vehicle for starkly simple greetings, and ultra-moderns like it. Greeting-card industry spokesmen predict that by next Christmas at least 50 per cent of the cards distributed will be made of plastic.

Another postwar newcomer, which tradition bows is the brightly colored Kodachrome card, which typifies the advances of modern photography.

Themes for cards, both traditional and modern, reflect the nation's peacetime temper and its current thinking in national and international affairs. New patriotic themes are frequently friendly bows to the United Nations, with cards that depict our Allies' customs and costumes.

In the bright galaxy of cards are new offerings from the American Artists Group, which reproduces the works of well-known American artists. This year's offering includes faithful reproductions of museum masterpieces taken from the Encyclopedia Britannica collection of contemporary American paintings.

COLE HILL

Cole Hill, Nov. 18—The Willing Workers met at the home of Mrs. Fred Palmer at Torpedo Thursday. The next meeting will be Tuesday, November 26, at the home of Mrs. William Gray at Garland. The Willing Workers purchased two flags for the Methodist church at Garland. One is a Christian flag and the other is an American.

Bible study meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bernad Holmes at Torpedo Wednesday evening, Nov. 20.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Herdendorf and children, Boyd and Kay, of Warren, visited her sister, Mrs. Lillian Camp, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hamann, of Torpedo; Mrs. Oren Eastman and children, Lewis and Mildred, of this place, visited Mr. and Mrs. Wales Hamann, at Marienville, on Sunday and today. Mrs. George Hamann is celebrating her birthday today. George Hamann is hunting bears today in Forest County.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Casey of Russell, were visiting his sister, Mrs. Fred Palmer, at Torpedo.

Miss Nellie Wentworth visited friends in Youngsville Sunday.

Bear season opened today, but no bears have been seen in this neighborhood.

Urge Hunters To Help Avert Forest Fires

All hunters are urged to be very careful with fire while in the woodlands and fields until heavy rains occur.

The clear days experienced during the past three days have dried out the slash and forest litter which will burn readily if the sun comes up and evaporates the moisture that has developed during the night, says Forest Supervisor A. H. Anderson of the Allegheny National Forest, located in portions of Warren, Elk, Forest and McKean County.

Hundreds of bear hunters went into the woods Monday morning and before noon many smokes were discovered by the lookouts on State and Forest Service lookout towers. Investigations revealed those smokes were caused by hunters who had kindled warming fires.

Attention is called to State and Federal prohibitions against kindling fires in forest and oil and gas bearing lands without obtaining written permission of the land owner.

Mr. Anderson states that the fire menace will increase during the next few days and will not abate until a soaking rain occurs.

Protect Game—Keep the Woods Green.

SUGAR GROVE

Sugar Grove, Nov. 18—About sixty members of the congregation of the Presbyterian church met in the church Thursday evening for a family supper.

A buffet supper was served with the guests seated at tables centered with pink and white chrysanthemums.

Following the supper the group met in the church and Melvin Rehn welcomed the special guests and others who led devotions. He then introduced Mrs. Agnes Pagard and children Mary, Nell, Kathleen Corinne, and Kenneth, and Miss Anne Isaacson, sister of Mrs. Pagard. The Pagard family are from South Africa, and are spending a year in America. Mrs. Pagard is a mission teacher in that country. Her husband is enroute home now being unable to come at the time his family came. They are stationed in Swaziland, Africa. Nell Pagard played a violin solo with his sister Mary as accompanist, and Kathleen and Corinne sang a duet in American and also one in theulu language. Mrs. Pagard then gave a very interesting talk, illustrated with pictures shown by her son Kenneth. This is the young people's first visit to America and they are very anxious to see their first snow storm.

The young people and several adults of the Presbyterian church, attended the service conducted by the Gideons at the Mission church, last Sunday evening.

Mrs. Neil Scott will be hostess to the C. and O. Circle next Thursday evening and the Presbyterian Women's Missionary Society will meet Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Scott Stuart, 55.

The auction sale in the school gymnasium Friday evening sponsored by the Parents Teachers Association and the American Legion, was well attended and something over one hundred and fifty dollars from the sale will be used as the start of funds to purchase uniforms for the school band.

Members of Maplewood Rebeekah Lodge met Friday evening in regular session and Mrs. Pearl Ayling gave an interesting report of the District meeting at Lottsville. Applications of six new members were acted on favorably and plans

Supplementary Registration Is Demanded

All landlords operating a hotel, rooming or boarding house, motor court, tourist court or space rented in an auto or trailer camp in Erie and Warren counties are required to file supplemental registration statements for their establishments before December 31, 1946. Frank S. Anderson, Area Rent Director, announced today.

Landlords affected may obtain the necessary forms by calling or writing the local Rent Office, 707 Commerce Building, Erie, Penna.

Mr. Anderson explained that this registration is being conducted throughout the country to comply with a provision of the Price Control Extension Act of 1946 which directs OPA to classify separately transient hotels, residential or apartment hotels, rooming houses and tourist courts.

"It is vital that all landlords affected register promptly and file the registration form in duplicate so that their establishments may be classified properly on the basis of the data submitted," Anderson said.

"Landlords in the area who rent only houses and apartments under the housing regulation need not file this additional registration and are not affected."

"Those required to register will find registration easy. They are required to fill out only a single-page form in duplicate and send or bring both copies to this office. After the forms have been checked, the duplicate copy will be returned to the landlord filing it with the classification of the establishment shown in the upper right hand corner."

CONSOLIDATED TURKEY TALK

WE RAISE, DRESS, CLEAN AND SELL OUR OWN

We all know the evil of preparing a turkey in the pin feathers. Through a costly scientific process, we this year have succeeded in producing a turkey without pin feathers—not even down the back.

Young, Tender, Full-Breasted HENS and TOMS

Dressed by professionals so that not even a thread or string is necessary to hold the stuffing

They have never seen the foothills of VIRGINIA... They have never eaten the blue grass of KENTUCKY... They have never roamed the plains of MONTANA... They have done nothing but drink fresh water and eat wheat, oats and corn and bathed in sunshine from wire pens off the ground at the foothills of the Blue Ridge in PENNSYLVANIA... We expect to dress 1,000 for Thanksgiving and for those who have not seen them in their pens or seen them dressed, whether you buy or not, everybody is welcome. (P. S.—Sunday would be a good time to go up the Big 4 and see them)

Delightful Reception At 1st Methodist

On Wednesday evening about 150 members and friends of First Methodist church gathered to honor Miss Marie Gutzier, who has been church secretary for 21 years, and Dr. and Mrs. C. T. Greer.

Dr. Greer was pastor of First church for nine years (1923-1932) and was the pastor at the time the present beautiful edifice was built. He has returned in an official relationship to First church in the capacity of superintendent of the Jamestown District.

The dining room tables were beautifully decorated in pink and white pompons and matching candles, by the ladies of the Woman's Society of Christian Service who also served the bounteous dinner.

Between courses, William M. Hill led in singing of old-fashioned songs with Dr. Pierson Eaton on the piano. The Furman twins played two violin selections with Mrs. Furman accompanying. Shoulder corsages were presented to Mrs. Greer, Miss Gutzier, Mrs. Furman and Joyce and Janet Furman.

After dinner, members of the Allen Class conducted the honored guests to Dunham parlors where a reception line formed. (The Rev. Mr. Furman acted as master of ceremonies at the program which followed. Mrs. Florence Stevens sang a group of numbers, one of which was dedicated to Miss Gutzier. Dorothy Bohren rendered a piano solo. Talks were made by Frank Kottkamp, Herbert G. Eaton, A. H. Templeton, R. Pierson Eaton, W. S. Clark, and William Hill, Jr. Miss Pearl Lund, president of the Woman's Society of Christian Service, presented two beautiful pictures of the church to Dr. and Mrs. Greer and a lovely door lamp to Miss Gutzier in behalf of the Woman's Society; she also gave Miss Gutzier a purse from the congregation as an expression of appreciation for her faithful and efficient service. Miss Gutzier and Dr. Greer responded with appropriate words, after which a friendship circle formed and the company sang "Faith of Our Fathers" as a tribute to those who sacrificed and labored in building the church; and "Blest Be the Tie That Binds" as an expression of the blessings of Christian Fellowship. At the conclusion, the Woman's Society presented the pastor, Wayne Furman and his wife with a gift.

Farm Show Attendance To Set Record

Harrisburg, Nov. 21.—(P)—The Pennsylvania farm show building in Harrisburg is the largest of its type in the world but it still will lack space enough for meeting rooms for use by statewide farm organizations during the Jan. 13-17 exposition.

State Agriculture Secretary Miles Horst, chairman of the farm show commission, said today that never before in the 31-year history of the farm show have so many requests for meeting rooms been so great as for the first postwar renewal of the event in January.

Space available in the farm show building for such meetings in pre-war shows, but officers of some organizations say they expect attendance "larger than ever this year," Horst explained.

Between 600 and 800 members of the Pennsylvania Society of Farm Women therefore will be assigned to the education building for the capital grounds, Horst said. The Future Farmers of America, close to 1,000 strong, also will use the same auditorium.

More than 25 farm organizations have notified Horst to date they expect to hold sessions during the five-day farm show. Every available room in the building has been assigned, he added.

"Farmers of Pennsylvania have not had the privilege of attending a farm show since 1913 because of the war," Horst declared. "They are 'farm show hungry' and will come to Harrisburg as the rate of a thousand a day."

DICKSON ARRESTED

PUTTING UP DECORATIONS

Workmen are engaged in putting up the evergreen decorations on the streets in the business section. They gave the thoroughfare a holiday appearance. Many windows had planned to use Christmas lights are hesitating about getting them strung as there may be a brown out during the weeks to come if the coal strike continues and a coal shortage develops.

CELEBRATING BIRTHDAY

W. D. Todd, one of the best known of Warren's citizens, one of the men who had a large part in the promotion of Warren's industrial life is today celebrating his 82nd birthday. He is in fine health and was honor guest at a family dinner enjoyed Tuesday evening at the home of his son, George Todd, Fourth avenue.

INVITED TO CHAUTAUQUA

Members of the Jamestown Chamber of Commerce are preparing a brochure and engraved invitation invited the United Nations to make its permanent home in Chautauqua county. It is felt that the location is a good one and the location of the UN home in the nearby county would be welcomed by the people of this county who wholeheartedly endorse the project.

NEW SIGN PLACED

A new electric sign has been placed over the Carver Hotel cocktail lounge, depicting the garish colors the cherry in a cocktail glass. Flashing electric lights cover the gaudy reds advertising the Flame Room and they flash real flames at night. The sign is probably one of the most garish ever erected in the city and rouses much comment among the viewers during the past few days.

WOULD INCREASE PAYMENTS

Members of the Townsend Club here are interested in the action taken at Harrisburg where a bill is being prepared by the Townsends to be presented to the State Legislature in January. Under that measure Social Security would receive $25 a month which would be matched by the Federal Government making a pension of $50 per month for the aged. The committee at Harrisburg was composed of representatives of over 100 clubs over the state.

LEAVE FOR SOUTH

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Johnson left last evening for Jacksonville, Fla., where they expect to arrive by Friday to accompany back to Warren the body of the latter's sister, Dorothy Lester Nicolaus, who died Tuesday in that city. Time of their arrival back in Warren is not known and funeral arrangements will have to be announced later. In the account of Mrs. Nicolaus death published on Wednesday, the name of a sister, Mrs. Nora Kays, was inadvertently omitted.

Nice Progress Being Made At the Airport

It was stated by workmen yesterday at the airport that the new shop addition, measuring 41 by 67 feet in size, would have the outer shell walls completed by Friday. The building is a beauty, with plenty of shop and storage space furnished by the addition in order to clear out some of the congestion in the regular hangar.

Contractor Melvin Thomas and his crew are taking over the mason work in the new shape, having nearly completed the shell of the south wall, windows and all. The shop adjoins the east side of the hangars, and the workers are coming up fast on the east and north walls.

The Warren Construction Company took over the framework job which has been completed for a few weeks now, but not until the material had been ordered. It is believed that the shell of the south wall, windows and all. The shop adjoins the east side of the hangars, and the workers are coming up fast on the east and north walls.

Work on the walls didn't start until early last week, but cinder blocks are being used for the job, allowing it to progress rapidly. It is believed that the shell of the south wall, windows and all. The shop adjoins the east side of the hangars, and the workers are coming up fast on the east and north walls.

Fire Damages Fair Grounds At Stoneboro

Stoneboro, Nov. 21.—Damage estimated at between $30,000 and $35,000 were caused to buildings at the Stoneboro fair grounds and a gasoline truck owned by the Sterling Oil Company last night when the truck caught fire on Route 62 near the grounds and exploded sending the flames to nearby structures.

Firemen of volunteer departments of Fredonia, Sandy Lake, Mercer and Stoneboro were summoned to fight the blaze which endangered the entire fair grounds and were still at the scene at a late hour last night, although the real danger had been averted. A bucket brigade of approximately 300 persons helped the fire fighters prevent the various other buildings of the fair from being destroyed.

The truck, with a full capacity load of 4,055 gallons of gasoline, was being driven by Jake Jenkins of Jackson Center enroute to Harrisville at the time of the accident. According to Jenkins as he neared a point beside the fair ground buildings the truck burst into flames and he headed the vehicle into the nearby ditch at the same time jumping free of the machine.

Jenkins stated that the fire seemed to start under the transmission of the machine, but no reason was given for the blaze. As the fire spread, it exploded on the truck sending flames nearly 40 feet into the adjoining horse stalls of the fair grounds. At least four of the barns were destroyed before the flames could be subdued.

Yesterday Is Nowhere

By BEATRICE MUIR

Chapter 23

IT STRUCK him that of the two Joseph was the least afraid. But in spite of it he whispered fiercely:

"One peep out of you, Joseph, and I'll fling you down on top of Siegmund when he comes." Joseph put a finger to his lips, the inference stunned Niel so that all he could do was lean against the wall and stare at him.

"Kitty—Kitty," called Joseph, then he beckoned Niel to come away from the stairs but Niel shook his head. "Achi you must trust me."

It was the soft, mild look in his eyes that compelled Niel to move. He couldn't believe Joseph intended to help him, but then, he didn't believe in miracles. Noislessly, warily he came round called the cat for Siegmund's benefit. "I can get you away," he whispered, "but go back to your room till tonight."

Niel shook his head. "I'm getting out now, so don't try to stop me."

"A little more time will secure everything."

"Yes... for the General." Joseph deliberately scanned his face.

"Suppose," irony in his whisper, "you're going to fade into the atmosphere and pass Siegmund as an invisible man?" Niel shrugged then grinned and there was an amused gleam in the old eyes.

"This is no time for nonsense... puss, puss!... one must be cunning. I came to catch a cat—so I catch one, put it in a box, so I picked up a cardboard box from a packing crate. I close the lid, so, to keep him from clawing me—then I go down. You follow close behind so that only I make all the noise... you see!" He nodded.

"For a minute I will hold the door wide in the hall talking to Siegmund... but when I begin to talk the cat is the time for you to slip behind me downstairs. I will close this door and by the time I thump downstairs—you will be gone! Puss, puss! Niel put his hand on his shoulder, it seemed to press against bore. "You won't signal to Siegmund?" Almost he despised himself for voicing suspicion but Joseph held his look steadily.

"I prefer your safety."

"But why?"

"Hush! then: "For your father's sake." His voice trembled. "But come... there's no time." Niel held him back. "Tell me only a little more."

"There's no time, Freya lives—" "I can find her house."

"Then she will tell you. Come. Remember, when I talk to the cat is the time for you."

JOSEPH descended the stairs stiffly and clumsily, but with a suitcase it was worse for Niel. Mechanically he forced his feet to the stairs, now and then Joseph called the cat for Siegmund's benefit. But the instant Joseph opened the hall door his mind cleared to alertness to watch every expression on his face.

Siegmund's casual voice enquired: "Did you catch the puss?"

"I always do," Siegmund laughed good naturedly. Then it came over him that Niel expected his mouth go dry. "So it's the stable for you, puss... no more games up there..."

Niel gripped the suitcase, judged the corner then fitted behind Joseph and down the stairs while the old man snuffed his feet and banged the attic door with unnecessary violence.

Downstairs at the door fright seized him—not the expectant fright of a bullet from Siegmund's rifle, nor of Conrad and Franz returning before he was out of sight, but the strange, illogical fright of gaining his freedom without having to struggle with or kill Siegmund.

Noislessly he turned the knob, the sweet damp smell of snow reeked him, sparrows twittered from the eaves and as he stepped out closing the door behind him he felt sunlight warm on his face. This was freedom!

Quickly he walked down the garden path, across an open space to a footpath leading to the woods. The instant he reached the first line of trees he began to run. ... madly, blindly as he had never run before. The snow laden branches, the sloping hills, the trees were only a blur before his eyes. He ran until he staggered against a tree, lungs bursting and as he floundered in the snow his thoughts seemed to touch on the wisdom of the ages and his consciousness of himself drifted into a vague stupor. If anything in his life ever touched him so deeply it would be this. He might have stayed there for hours, in a way it verged on madness—then the music from the skating rink saved him. It floated in and out of his awareness bringing him to his feet. He brushed the snow from his hair, he suddenly felt laughed.

It wasn't long guided him so that the cut and stroke of steel blade on the ice. When he reached the top of the slope the rink's ahead about fifty feet. Actually was a frozen lake. Here and there channels of ice detoured around tiny islands where lone skaters swooped over the ice. His eyes flashed from one graceful figure to another, certain if Freya were here she would be skating alone. A path of hard-packed snow edged the ice so he strode and skaters passed him, he was alone... but no, it was in G. many and he felt a calm, unfeigned antagonism within him with fleeting recollections of so of his lost friends. Suddenly something caught him between the snow and he sprawled forward in the snow. Even as he fell he looked around—he had tripped over a woman's feet.

Her laughter filled his ears. Quickly he rose and turned. He sat on a rustic bench, her black hair shone uncovers gleaming white teeth and a pair of green eyes sparkling with merriment.

"How funny!" she laughed. "Here I sit thinking about Siegmund and behold he falls on my feet!"

Normalcy Has Returned To Bring Hunters Here For Deer

Normalcy is returning to Pennsylvania's game lands. With the war over and the majority of the armed forces demobilized, normal times are here as for as the game season is concerned. And by normalcy is meant the re-appearance in the fields and forests of thousands upon thousands of sport lovers who had set aside the double-asted shot-gun and their favorite deer rifle to take up more powerful weapons for a different purpose during the last four years.

Normalcy is here again. Red coated gentlemen, their numbers swelled by the returned veteran, make their way through busy streets, sauntering from one food and hunting supply store to the other, buying up necessities needed for their sortie to the woodlands. These are the signs that Warrenites will witness, Monday, Dec.

2, when the second-post-war buck season gets under way. And indications point to it being greater than the first when armed forces demobilization was getting under way in high gear.

Thousands of hunters are ready to pass beneath the imaginary portal which reads "Gateway to Allegheny National Forest" which is Warren and Warren is ready with its greeting ready to serve the needs of the outdoorsmen.

Business houses specializing in the needs of hunters report that stocks are not sufficient to meet the wants of everyone, but everyone, but they say this year's supply is greater than any time during the year, and should be sufficient to give everyone a fair share, which will allow them to spend a few days in the woodlands, tracking down the antlered animals.

Authorities again predict a good season, as is usually the case in Pennsylvania where the game season is a high spot on the calendar, and where state authorities to their utmost to provide the best conditions available.

Seasoned observers, men who have watched the game picture year in and out, have only rosy predictions for this season's hunting. The number and state of deer is encouraging, and numbers have been spotted throughout this wide area. Herds have been observed in the areas of Warren county and many seasoned hunters believe this is an indication that numbers are greater than ever before.

Motorists traveling at night have encountered the fleet-footed animals leaping across highways. In recent weeks, state police have presented many area hospitals with venison—gratuit! This is from deer accidentally killed by automobiles along highways.

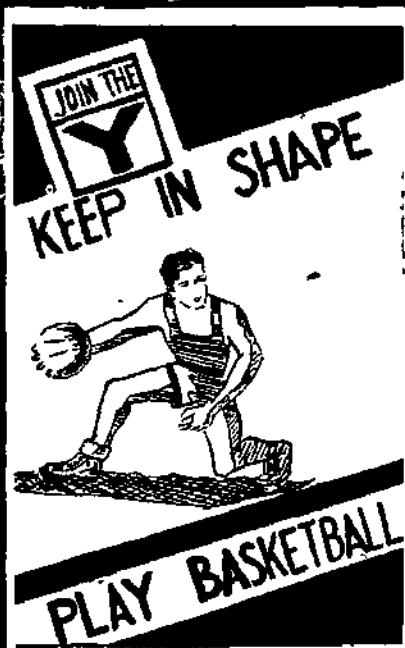

All these facts lead everyone to predict a bumper crop of deer for the sportsman.

Nimrods are satisfied there will be plenty of deer. And a record turnout is expected in the big game mountains for the 14 days of hunting that is provided by the rules for this season.

Hunting camps are being prepared for the season. Repairs are being made to the out-of-doors, many service veterans will be trying out GI garments they brought home just for hunting. Parkas, fur-lined jackets used by the army in cold climates will all be utilized.

Favorite deer rifles connote more than woodlands and amber-colored animals. They suggest the need for safety in the woods. But accidents are expected to be light, what with still existing shortages in ammunition that will prompt the hunter to use it sparingly, and only when they have a good shot at a legal animal. Because the majority of the sportsmen will be ex-GIs, it is believed the knowledge they gained while in service handling firearms will make for a safe season.

Only nine days remain before the general exodus to the big game country begins. The fusillades will be many, the sport will be great, the stories from the field will be more eccentric than ever. It will be just like old times. Normalcy has returned.

What a Record Those Tigers Of Creighton Really Do Have

When the Red Jackets take the field next Sunday at 2 o'clock they will be faced with the lastest football team they have cooked as opponents this year. The Tigers have a record during the season of having played 13 games winning eleven and losing two, both to the New Kensington Alumnies. The New Kensington eleven won once by a score of 7 to 0 and the last game 7 to 6. The McKeesport Vets were beaten by the Tigers by a score of 12 to 0.

Bowl Decision Is Disliked By Fans at Large

Los Angeles, Nov. 21.—(P)—Pacific Coast Conference officials here today privately expressed disappointment over the Berkeley Rose Bowl decision, but the public at large was not so discreet.

Interested observers, alumni spokesmen, sports experts, and literally hundreds of fans didn't wait to be asked for an opinion on the Pacific Coast-Big Nine Bowl pact which slammed the gates on Army.

The consensus in Southern California was: An agreement might be all right, but after all these years of official and unofficial jockeying between the two, it could have been dated a year later, leaving the way open for Army to play in the Pasadena game next New Year's Day.

There was a healthy minority who didn't like the agreement in any form. They opposed the closed-door policy against other teams, principally from the South and Southwest which have provided the bowl history with many a colorful chapter, win or lose.

Particularly painful was the suggestion as reported from the East that the conference was afraid to meet the great Army outfit. That one hurt, for it was U.C.L.A. and Southern California who meet Saturday for the right to represent the far west in the Rose Bowl, which led the losing battle at Berkeley to bring the Cadets to the bowl.

Outvoted in their own conference, two to six, with two members absent, both U.C.L.A. and Southern Cal favored Army even before the hurry-up session was called at Berkeley.

BOWLING ASSOCIATION MEETING IS CALLED
A meeting of the Warren Bowling Association has been called by Secretary M. L. Johnson to be held at the Elks Club Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Each league is requested to have officials or other representatives present. The Association is the official governing body of the American Bowling Association and it is important that all sanctioned leagues be represented.

Ken Wisner's boys realize they will have to do some fancy prancing next Sunday to be in the show and to that end they are doing some scrimmage and hard practicing this week. Every effort is being made to develop speed and some razzle dazzle and the visitors are guaranteed that they will know they are in a football game.

Yes, Warren expects to win, if you ask us. If they don't win it will not be because they are not in there trying. Last evening the players got a real pep talk and every spectator out Sunday can rest assured that if vim and spirit coupled with some darned good football can win Warren will come out on the big end of the score.

No team has yet been booked for the Thanksgiving Day tilt but Freddie Gebhart is doing his best. An effort will be made to bring a team here that will extend the Jackets to the utmost as the curtain drops on the football season which has been a success from every angle.

Two Players Help Make Red Jackets Tick

Two of the birds who help make the Red Jackets tick are Bivona and Deets. When Bill Rice drools into the mike the names of these two guys roll off his tongue with great frequency. Both are in almost every play and they go great guns.

"Bivona through the line picks up five yards" has become a sort of slogan at the games and when yardage is needed he usually gets it. This sturdy Jacket hails from Westfield, N. Y., and during his school days he and his brother simply burned 'em all up. He played half back at Westfield and really went to town being one of the legendary boys in football history there. He's making more in the Red Jacket line up where as full back he is really good.

Deets comes from Dempseytown, Venango county and he got his football under Coach Thompson at Slippery Rock Teachers College. Thompson was one of the greats in coaching and he developed Deets into a tackle on some of the best football teams the teachers ever turned out. Deets at tackle for the Jackets is a tower of strength and he stops cold many plays that were ticked through his position. And how he punches the ticket!

There is plenty of power on the Jackets as followers of the team realize when they take the measure of a bunch like the Mason-Town Pals and the Glassport Pros. It's gonna be fun to watch 'em take over as Tiger trainers next Sunday when Creighton comes to town.

FIRST "MARRIAGE BROKER"
Eliezer, mentioned in the Bible as the faithful servant of Abraham, was the first "marriage broker" of whom there is any permanent written record. He arranged the marriage of Rebekah and Isaac.

ELKS

The Keystone Printers are the only team that went the limit in winning their match last night at the Elks alleys. The Printers, led by H. B. Johnson's 225 single game and 557 total, took four from the Times Square team. L. Decker's 493 total was best for the Times team.

In the trio of three point wins, Beyers took Budweiser, Turner's Radio Shop turned back the Soda Mineral keggers, and the B. and E. Garagers topped Mader's. Bleach, with a 212 single and a 581 total, was the high man for Budweiser in the first game while Grosch, of Turner Radios, rolled the high for the two teams with a 216-568. Mader hit a 558 for Mader's in the last game.

(Addition is not the chief trait of this division, mainly because those in this division can't take time to do any. It has been asked before that when the score sheets only are turned in, they can at least be added up. In addition, I might mention that the score keeper at the Elks made the slight error of 300 pins, in adding up the score of the Keystone Printers over Times-Square.

ONEWANGO

Hugh Robertson rolled a 215 single and a 563 total to lead the bowling in the Onewango League last night. His team, the Tigers, though, dropped three counters, but his high single game, along with Johnny Trevenen's 205 single, accounted for the single win of the Tigers. MacDonald paced the Athletics for their three points with a 212-543.

Final Meeting In Basketball

As a final gesture before the regular season opens next Monday, the officers of the Y. M. C. A. City Basketball League have decided to call a special meeting on Friday night at 7:30 o'clock. This will be an important meeting of managers and representatives of each team and will be the deadline for entrance. Any team not having its fee and roster in by that time will be out of luck.

Other important matters to be taken care of are passes for the games for players, rules, referee's decisions. All managers must be present, so you basketball men get out your date books and spare an hour or so for Friday evening.

INNOCENT

"Snippy" answers to customers? The "run-around"? The "let-em-wait" attitude? Not at Personal Finance Company! My customers have declared me Innocent!

And they say I'm not guilty either of saying "No" to them when they ask for something. Proof: 4 out of 5 who ask for a loan here—get it!

"Personal" makes loans from $25 to $250 on signature alone, or on furniture or auto. Friends, relatives or employer not notified. Usually I say "Yes" to loan requests in a hurry. But even when circumstances are unusual, I try to find a way to work out a deal. That's why "Personal" is so often able to make loans that others cannot.

Like most people, I don't believe in unnecessary borrowing... but when a loan is needed or to your advantage, I'll be glad to say "Yes." Any time you need extra cash—see me, won't you? I'm at Personal Finance Co. 216 Liberty street, second floor, over Lester Shoe Store. Phone 285.

CHRISTMAS CARD ETIQUETTE

New York — (NEA) — Besides the rule of etiquette which says that a first-class friend deserves first-class mail, there are other social amenities that apply to the sending of Christmas cards. Now that the time is rolling around again to take pen in hand, let's review the other rules.

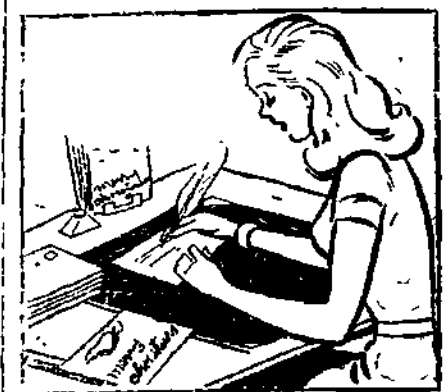

2. If he's a business acquaintance, send the card to his office. The exception is that when you know the Missus too, send the card to both at their home address.

3. All married couples to whom you send cards are addressed as Mr. and Mrs. So-and-So, unless the husband has an official, professional or religious title. Where that's the case, his title replaces the Mister.

4. If you and your husband's names are printed or engraved on cards, you sign yourselves conventionally as "Mr. and Mrs. Jim Woosits." But if signatures are ink-written, "Jim and Barbara" or "Jim and Barbara Woosits" is the rule.

5. The children of a family to whom you send cards also rate a listing on the envelope when you mail a card to their mums and dads. The rule is to write children's names right after their mom's in the order of their age, starting off with the eldest. On a formal card, this is the way it should be written: "Mr. and Mrs. Jim Jones, Jim Jr., and Helen." If the card is informally sent, the address might be: "The Joneses, Jim, Barbara, Jim Jr., and Helen."

It's Easy to Sew These Toys

By ERSIE KENARD
NEA Staff Writer

New York — (NEA) — A woman claiming no talent for needlework can become Santa's helper this Christmas and fill socks with her own clever handiwork, if she'll start now to make some of the popular playthings which wowed the young fry.

Sumptuous patterns make it easy to duplicate many of Toyland's brightest gimmicks at only a trifling cost. There's even a pattern to chart every step of your way in building and furnishing a doll house. Here's one project you can undertake and shrug your shoulders at shortages. A grocery carton yields sturdy building materials. A cardboard shirt prop makes scaled-to-size furniture, and odds and ends salvaged from

Or to make and stuff a sleeping doll with goldlocks wrought of yellow yarn.

Polly Pigtail's family of dolls will be one richer for your gift of a going-to-bed unclothed that's easy to make. What will make Polly wide-eyed are her doll's braids, its yawning red mouth and the flannel pajamas which copy her own. As enchanting as a real bride's are wedding gowns for dolls, complete with veils, which take only odds and ends from the remnant counter to make.

Bonnets to make little girls look more bewitching make gifts that compete with toys. New double-ruffled charmers are simple enough for amateurs with the crochet hook to tackle. Able also to compete with toys for the favor of a growing-up girl are bed linen sets for her own little room, embroidered and applied with nursery motifs. There are full-sized transfers and color charts for the needlework which elevates the importance of such gifts.

Imaginative Tricks Make Yule Greens More Festive

BY ESPIE KINARD
NEA Staff Writer

New York—(NEA)—Add an invisible spray of imagination to the evergreens that you use to decorate your home this Christmas season, and see how much more festive and heart-warming the effects will be.

Taking you behind the scenes of her swank shop, Judith Garden, topflight New York stylist, shows you tricks that florists use to glorify greenery. Miss Garden wires leaves and paints 'em gold, uses water-proof ribbon on sprays that hang outside of doors, trims trees with flowers, makes snowy little fir trees out of pipe-stem cleaners, and has one sure-fire but simple-to-do trick up her sleeve for glorifying the mistletoe.

All set to listen to and profit from her helpful hints. To turn good old mistletoe, for instance, into a modern courting device, she suggests making a "kissing ring" you'll keep their little faces damp mantle sprays? To turn a spray of magnolia leaves into a shower of gold, Judith Garden individually wires each leaf—using 24-overnight with pieces of wet cotton.

Want to go gala with door or from a chandelier another long streamer is tied to the top of the hoops.

To make a snowy little Christmas tree, which invites jolly Jack Frost into a room without lowering its temperature, use pipe-stem cleaners, which you can buy by the yard. Planting your tree in a pot—Miss Garden favors a white jardiniere—plunge a slender stick into the dirt. Now wire on "branches" of pipe-stem cleaners, cut in graduate lengths, to build a tapering tree. Trim with ribbon bows, tiny pine cones or Christmas-tree balls.

You can make a Christmas tree look as spectacular as the winning exhibit in a flower show, says Miss Garden, if you'll trim it with red and white carnations. Begging for this fancy dress is the chubby little juniper tree, around which alternating rows of red and white carnations can be easily wired on in a spiraling effect, if you'll begin at the top.

If you use fresh carnations, Miss Garden's tip for keeping them fresh is to wire on tiny florist tubes, and fill with water. You can hope to keep fresh for Christmas day fresh flowers that are wired directly to the tree, if gauge florist wire in 18-inch pieces—and fasten together to make the desired shape. To decorate, she makes dahlia-like blossoms of split pine cones, flattened out for better imitation of the flower, and wires these onto the spray to fill in gaps. To gild, gold paint is brushed over every leaf and "flower," and for more dazzle the pine cones are outlined with silvery dust, sprinkled on while the paint is still wet.

For your outdoor spray that shouts "Merry Christmas" to passersby, use, as Miss Garden does, an assortment of evergreens—pine, cedar, juniper or others of your choice—and decorate with pine cones, painted white. Tie with a whopping big bow and streamers of water-proof red-ribbon.

Magnolia leaves wired to make a spray, then glamorized with gold paint and silver dust, make an eye-catching Yuletide decoration for door or mantelpiece.

Exciting Gifts Slated For Homes

New Inventions and Shining Plastics Will Sparkle On Christmas Morning

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

New York (NEA) — Postwar wonders for the home are so exciting that they'll need no tinsel wrappings and red bows to glamorize their presence under the Christmas tree.

Streamlined and gleaming, an aluminum and white enamel "jet-propelled" dish-washing machine, for instance, is a Santa Claus answer to housewives' prayers. This motorless marvel, which operates on pressure from the household water supply, cleans up dinner service for four in less than five minutes. Hydraulic action raises and lowers the wire tray which holds the dishes. When the top is closed and dishes are ready to be washed, a flick of a lever sends hot water from eight jets spurting over the dishes, and the water pressure causes the tray to revolve through the foamy suds for complete cleansing.

A postwar boom to make eyes pop on Christmas morning is a built-in radio clock that will wake you up in the morning with sweet music and simultaneously start the breakfast coffee percolating. Secret of this amazing performance is a timing device that can be set so as automatically to switch the radio on or off and control appliances plugged into a built-in double socket.

Sparkling plastics magically transform drab household accessories into shinning beautiful gifts worthy of the postwar era. Transparent mailboxes reveal at a glance what the postman has brought and serve as decorative pick-me-ups for entrance doorways. Clear or jewel-tones plastic glamorizes the pedestrian function of wastepaper baskets. These are teamed with grooved plastic magazine racks to make stunning ensembles.

Offering further proof of thrilling postwar developments for the home are mothproof, washable synthetic fabric rugs that faithfully reproduce lustrous designs of fabulous orientals at much less cost.

Thrilling Christmas gift for a housewife is this post-war developed "jet-propelled" dishwashing machine that cleans up dinner dishes in five minutes. Water pressure supplies the power.

Time Is Drawing Short For Sending Gifts Across Seas

New York (AP)—The time is drawing short for sending Christmas packages overseas.

And for hundreds of thousands of people in foreign lands it will be a pleasant or melancholy season depending on whether they receive remembrances from the United States. Uncle Sam, this year more than ever, will have to be the international Santa Claus. Returned soldiers will want to send something to wartime friends abroad. Millions of Americans, of course, also have relatives in foreign countries, and there are many, many thousand troops still stationed in distant outposts, safeguarding the peace.

None of them will be looking any gift horses in the mouth, but a little care in the selection of presents may make considerable difference in the enthusiasm with which they will be received.

The main idea: Give something useful rather than clever.

During the war, for example, the boys in heat harbors like Manila and Cebu got a little weary of pulling wool scarves and earmuffs out of crumpled Christmas boxes. Soldiers fighting at the front in Africa didn't think any more of Aunt Nelly for sending them a brightly colored necktie. One WAC got a set of poker chips. Such gifts left a distinctly sour note. They were as out of place as a hiccup at a WCTU meeting, as useless as a watch fob on a penguin. And they made the boys and girls in uniform pretty sore at the thoughtless but well-meaning folks back home.

Similarly, a culture-cozing lady in America who this year remembers a pre-war woman friend in England by shipping her an etching of the New York skyline can expect a cool note of gratitude in exchange.

English women would much rather have a pair of good stockings, a few old or new bed sheets and pillowcases, or a carton of soap. If they have children, their heart will go out to you for garments warm and wearable for the youngsters.

In any war-touched country shoes and clothing—never mind if they're a little worn—are more welcome than manna. (Modern manna is a sweetish substance obtained by incisions in the stems of various southern European shrubs and is mildly laxative).

If you know their intellectual preferences, friends abroad would be happy to get a pocket of new books. Everywhere there is an increasing interest in American books, and the supply is scarce.

Other suggestions: Boxes of food and candy are highly desirable gifts in most foreign countries. Include at least one delicacy you think they might have missed most; one touch of high-living can soften many bleak hours. Send peppermints only if you can't get chocolates.

Thermos flasks and all kinds of household gadgets are in short supply. They'll like them. If the gift box is going to natives of Germany and central Europe, put

Gifts to Please the Hard to Please

Hatbox-phonograph... above, would intrigue a music-lover on your Christmas list.

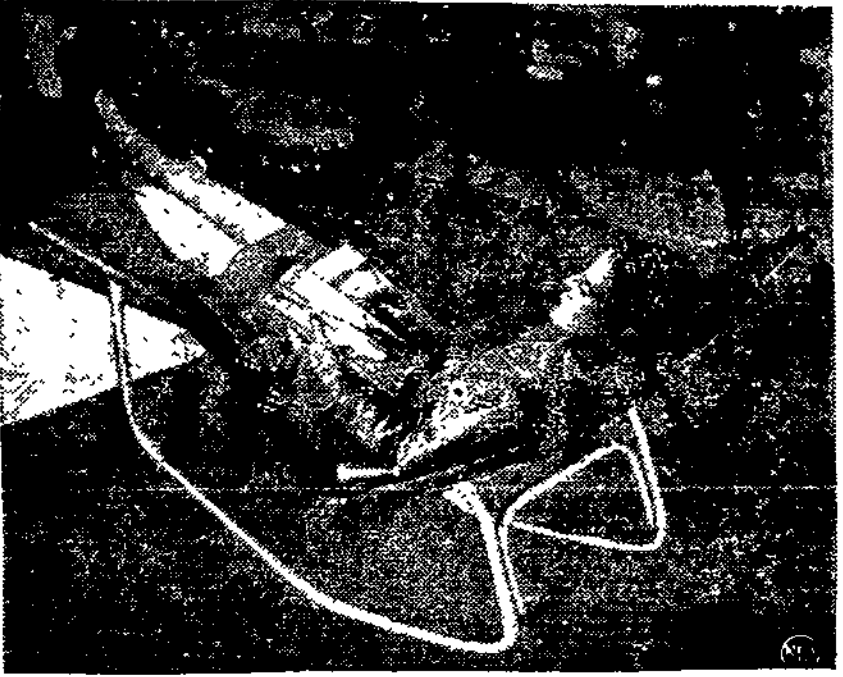

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

New York—(NEA)—The star-spangled array of ingenious new gadgets lining up on store shelves for the postwar parade of Christmas gifts offer bright answers to the vexing question of what to give the person who seems to have everything.

Here is a new "rest medium"—so termed by its makers because it is neither chair, bed nor chaise longue but a little of all three—that will coddle the urge of friends who like to sit down and put their feet up (and name one who doesn't).

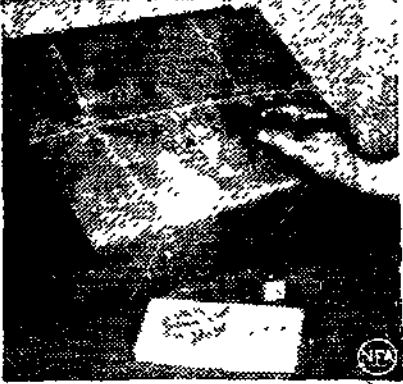

Christened the Barwa by its designers, this invention has a firm cushioned seat contour-curved to cradle the body from head to toe in a naturally restful position. Instead of chair legs, the Barwa has metal tubing runners rounded at each end so that by shifting body weight you can sit upright or recline in complete rest position when feet and head are at the same level.

What puts the familiar hat box

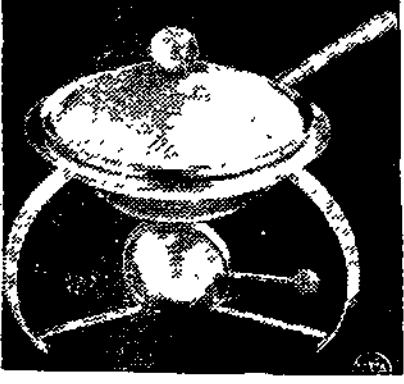

This is a new lounge chair that invites you to sit down and put your feet up. Shifting body weight tilts it into upright position. Curved to cradle body contours comfortably, this invention would make a hit with a hard-to-please person.

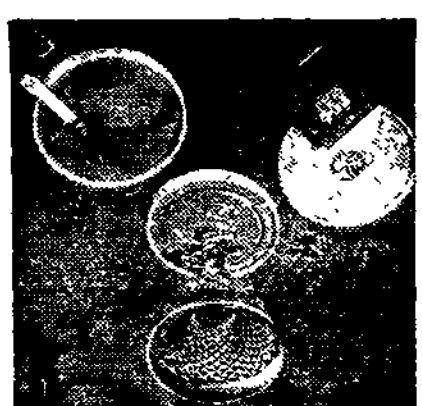

in the Yuletide line-up is the Sunday punch surprise it pulls when the plastic lid is lifted to reveal an electric record-player. Inspired by the hat-box trademark of glamorous models, the lightweight red morocco-lined phonograph is carried by a sturdy handle and will be "must" luggage for the girl who likes music wherever she goes.

With this handy brush-pen, large mailing packages are quickly and legibly addressed.

Streamliner copper chafing dish would add luster to any party-giving hostess's buffet.

A practical person would like the asbestos ashtray-coasters above. When one side is soiled, coaster can be reversed, goes.

Every family with food and clothing carons to ship to relatives overseas will applaud another novel gift—the brush—pen that writes with felt nibs instead of a metal point to mark up an address smoothly and legibly on the coarsest wrapping paper.

Give the hostess a chance to build her reputation as a cordon bleu chef with new chafing dishes and matching crepes suzettes pans. Spruced up and decked out in new materials—aluminum, brass and copper—these alcohol-burners are newly designed with curving legs and curving metal shields for the lamps that make them streamlined beauties at the Sunday-supper buffet.

Whimsies to delight the practical person are reversible ashtray-coasters made of absorbent asbestos with gold or silver metallic-paper runs. Clever and inexpensive, they can be flipped over for another tour of service when one side shows signs of wear.

Toys Will Be Plentiful For Early Buyers

By ARLENE WOLF
AP Newsfeatures Writer

New York—The cagey Christmas shopper who gets his kiddies' list in order early this year will be rewarded with a large selection of toys that haven't been on the counters since the war.

Plaything production in many lines is back at the prewar level, with an overall increase of 85 per cent over 1945, industry spokesmen say, but pent-up demand during the war years is expected to tax even the fullest supplies. In addition, an estimated 5,000,000 children of toy age were added to the population during the war years when the toys they wanted most weren't to be had.

So only the early purchaser will find the plaything this year—and any day before Christmas—last minute shopping is apt to result in run-of-the-mill toys that have been around for years. But back on the available list for smart buyers will be stamped out steel toys—small cars, tanks and other pushable and pullable gadgets dear to the small fry. The first lines of rubber playthings in years will bring back such items as rubber balls, balloons and animals, although more solid rubber toys may still be short.

Increased use of plastics will provide lightweight electric trains that whirl around at a great clip, movable eyes for dolls, and loads of miniature cars, boats and furniture for doll houses. "Just-like-mothers'" vacuum cleaner, washing machines and other household appliances also will be available to keep the doll house in proper order. The house itself will be relatively easy to find, perhaps one of the prefabricated types parents

Musical instrument of metal and plastic are back in the form of xylophones, pianos and horns. Ordinary nose-makers, scarce in previous years, will be available, and large-size wheel toys, held up by shortages of materials and labor so will metal and plastic popguns. Finest Shop of the Kind In Western Penn'a Complete
In All Details Will Be Seen

When the pounding and the sawing die and the slap of paint brushes has stopped the workers at the new Nut Shop will begin getting everything in readiness for the opening of the handsome new store on Pennsylvania avenue. The opening date has been set for November 22 and it is felt that everything will be in readiness.

The new store will be just about the finest thing in the line of business that is to be found in Western Pennsylvania. Workmen have been busy for weeks and in spite of difficulties met with in securing materials everything has worked out wonderfully well.

The new store will specialize in the products of The Nut Shop and ice cream, roasted nuts, delicious doughnuts, pop corn and other articles from the big West street factory will be found in abundance. Lunches will also be served.

When the doors are thrown open Friday morning Warren patrons of the Shop are due for a surprise. Just how such a revolutionary change could be made in such a short time as one month will puzzle the visitors. The store has been fitted up with new efficient counters and facilities will be found for the rapid handling of business. Stools will be found at the soda counter and at the rear of the soda bar is a beautifully finished and equipped sandwich bar. Booths are also adjacent to the sandwich bar.

The interior finish is most attractive and the indirect lighting will make the place light and highly attractive. At the rear of the big store will be the kitchen. This has been equipped with new ranges and other facilities so that foods can be prepared in a most sanitary and speedy manner. Lunches will be featured and it is expected that the excellent facilities installed may be taxed in the near future.

During the time that the downtown Shop has been closed patrons have been supplied from the West street factory. This big plant constructed and put into use several months ago is a busy place. The potato chip department covers a large amount of space and huge quantities of the Warren County Potato Chips are turned out. They are being sold over a wide area and a fleet of trucks sends them fresh and crisp to their destination.

The West street plant also houses the ice cream factory where the dainty is made in the most modern manner. Storage space for cream is also afforded and quantities can be cared for. The roasted nut department is also well equipped and it turns out great quantities of the real buttered and roasted nuts of all kinds. Popcorn and peanuts are also popped and roasted and placed in sacks. The doughnut department is also newly equipped with the most modern machines and the famous raised donuts of the Nut Shop as well as the sturdy old doughnut and chocolate covered doughnuts are also produced in immense numbers.

The Nut Shop has recently been made a member of the National Potato Institute due to the large amount of fine tubers used and the association with the Institute is a mark of distinction.

John Moore, of Cleveland, Ohio, has recently become a partner in the business and has arrived in the city to take up residence. He has had a large experience in work of the line carried on by the local business and will prove of value. He is an ex-service man and will undoubtedly prove popular in this city.

Much interest has been roused in the new Nut Shop and its opening Friday will be a real event in the history of this rapidly increasing business.

Highway Fund Payments Are Coming Soon

Harrisburg—Regulations providing for the payment of $2,082,232.10 to cities, borough and townships on December 1, from the motor fund have been sent to the fiscal offices by the department of highways.

These payments were authorized under Act 400, approved following the 1945 general assembly. Ninety-six municipal subdivisions have failed to submit the required reports to the department of highways and will not receive their allocations. Under the appropriation act the municipalities are required to submit reports showing expenditures of previous quarterly payments to the highway department.

All of the 49 cities in the state have filed their reports and will receive an aggregate of $464,512.77. The regulations of the department call for the payment of $494,072.11 to 877 townships. There were 57 boroughs that failed to furnish the required reports to the department.

All but four of the 61 first class townships will receive their money on December 1. The total to be paid the first-class townships is $133,414.04.

Checks amounting to $1,050,235.18 will be sent to 1481 second-class townships. There are 35 second-class townships in the delinquent class.

The amount withheld from the borough and townships is $42,787.90. These checks will be paid on supplemental requisitions when the necessary reports have been furnished the department.

Gala Gifts for Girls on Your List

By EPSIE KINARD
NEA Staff Writer

New York—(NEA)—The dazzle of this season's fashions, any eye-ful of which may call for dark glasses, focuses its fullest rays on Christmas gifts of apparel marked for the gals.

Even Nylons, which at least one manufacturer claims will fill a portion of the demand of holiday shoppers, step into the dazzle-dazzle with flirtatious tattoo designs indelibly inked on at knee and ankle.

Christmas-marked negligees and slippers—always near the top of the list of every man who can take a hint—rival the fireworks of a shooting star. Almost as phenomenal, too, are slippers of gold kid, for example, which Delman designs with curling toes like a harem queen's. Many of the super-glamorous hostess gowns owe their splendor to two pieces—a sheath of crepe topped by a sleeveless floor-length coat of brocade.

Sparklers that attract shoppers to accessory counters are sequined sweaters and headband-and-belt sets, and new metallic hoods. New gimmicks in jewelry show-cases are platinum gems that look for all the world like precious stuff but don't cost as much, and bold gold-washed "bicycle clips" with hearts attached. The idea behind these is that a girl can wear her heart on her sleeve or swing it from her neck, if she wants to encircle it with the slip-styled choker.

Furry accessories make up in chichi what they lack in glitter. Piled up with elegant pelts—mink, sable, leopard and ermine—are bags, muffs, scarves and even fans

Girls step out for Christmas with fancy tattoos indelibly inked on at ankle or knee. The heart-and-arrow motif above is one of a series of five designs which may be applied.

In word in chichi are gifts like these Delman-designed slippers for at-home wear, made of golden kid piped with red and featuring toes that curl like a harem queen's.

As glittering as her Christmas tree is this evening hood of sparkling metallic cloth designed to win favor from the girl who wants to keep step with newest of fashion.

The change from saint to flirt is made easy for a girl if the gift of a gala black lace fan, trimmed with ermine tails like the Maximilian design above, is one of her Christmas surprises.

Radio Atheist

Robert Harold Scott, 59, of Palo Alto, Calif., brought a storm of protest down upon a San Francisco radio station by broadcasting a 30-minute message of atheistic doctrines. He was granted air time as result of a five-year court fight for equal broadcast rights with church groups.

Chicago became an important center for people of Japanese ancestry during and after World War II.

Sparkling Packages for Cosmetic Gifts

Are Designed for Double-Duty Careers

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

New York—(NEA)—After years of having practically nothing to wear, cosmetics are bedecked for Christmas in their most elegant dress—sparkling new plastics, suave satins, starched lace and fine leathers—which is a symbol of the mood of the second postwar holiday.

Figuring that U. S. women are really giving in to the gypsy's itchy foot, the No. 1 offering of almost every big cosmetic house is a postwar travelling kit. Using fine leather cases again to house make-up, skin-care preparations and manicuring aids, these kits range from poucho bags that appeal to teen-agers to flight luggage fit for a travelling queen.

New emphasis on practicality is seen in lotion-proof and washable linings for cases, one of which is thoughtfully sheathed with acetate. This is a guarantee that its suave moire lining will stay suave, no matter what spills.

Sparkling see-through plastics give homes to everything from nail polish and make-up sets to haughty perfumes of both foreign and domestic brands. Belying their seeming frivolity are the after-uses planned for these sparkling boxes. A star-shaped plastic container for perfumes has a career ahead planned for it as a cigarette or collar-button box, a glittering acetate bird cage, made realistic with gold-studded bars, will house guest-room powder puffs when the three bottles of eau de toilette are disposed of. A plastic bell that brings a perfume trio will land, very likely, on some antique-lover's table as a "sous cloche" cover for a Victorian trinket.

Opaque plastics take hand-painted motifs which make collector's items and permanent dressing-table fixtures of cosmetic packages. A large fluted bowl of white plastic filled with dusting powder and puff, for example, will be cherished long after contents vanish for the paint-brushed moss rose motifs that decorate it and for its after-uses as a receptacle for fresh flowers or trinkets.

Also slated for double-duty uses are hand-made boxes sheathed with taut starched lace, which bring the teen-ager her own special gift of pillow-stuffed sachet and matching perfume of a light floral blend. Lace boxes of two different sizes accommodate perfume bottles of different liquid weights.

Citrine is topaz quartz. True topaz is a precious stone of great hardness and its color is a deep velvet saffron.

The first Pilgrim Thanksgiving at Plymouth in 1621 was given over to a whole week of feasting and sports.

(Revlon)
Gold dotted plastic box makes a gala gift of nail polish, lipstick, powder and rouge.

Ten-ager's own Melinda perfume and sachet are packed in this cunning lace-covered box.

(Charles of the Ritz)
This elegant plastic jar will be used long after the dusting powder it contains is gone.

ARTIFICIAL WAVES
In the swimming pool at Wembley, England, waves are produced artificially. The pool measures 60 feet by 200 feet, with depths varying from a few inches at one end to 16 feet at the other.

The watermelon has been reduced to a size commensurate with present-day apartment refrigerators running about 3-lbs., or the size of a cantaloupe.

Handsome new packages double the appeal of gifts of favorite cosmetics. For her friends, the wise gift-giver has selected perfumes encased in plastic bird cages and bells and fine leather traveling cases and pouch bags fitted with skin-care essentials.

Trees Being Cut Now For Holiday Trade

Seattle—(P)—The man who furnishes a good part of the United States with Christmas trees each year promises there will be plenty of trees this season and the prices "shouldn't be out of sight."

Alvin H. Hofert, who was born and raised in the Christmas tree business, doesn't believe inflation will hit the Christmas tree market.

"We are absorbing most of the increased costs ourselves," he said, "but of course the retailers may have to charge a little more for the trees."

Between 13,000,000 and 15,000,000 trees will be sold this year, he predicts, and a good portion of them will be obtained from his operations, which extend from Maine to the Pacific northwest.

Already trees are being cut for the Christmas trade of the big cities in the east. These trees in Washington, Oregon and Idaho are being stored in good spots in deep draws and along shaded streams in the mountains until shipment time.

Hofert expects increased sales this season because there are so many people with pockets full of money.

"In many states such as Arkansas, native trees get the sales when times are poor," he said, "because they can be obtained cheaper. This year, with money plentiful, most persons will be seeking commercial Christmas trees."

As usual a heavy sale of fir trees from the Pacific northwest is anticipated in Chicago. Most of the fir trees from the northwest go to the middle west and some as far south as Florida. Eastern cities receive much of their supply from the New England states and from eastern Canada.

Hofert's biggest source of supply comes from farmers, who have completed their fall harvest, turning to clearing their stump lands, picking up a little extra money by selling their small spruce, pine and fir trees.

His big problem will be to find freight cars to carry his trees to market, in fact he expects to use every type of car available, including gondolas and flats. The main thing, he said, is to move the trees.

Hofert started in the Christmas tree business in St. Paul, Minn., with his father, who established the J. Hofert Co., in that city and later transferred its headquarters to Seattle.
